

Dr. Konstantinos V. Sidiropoulos

Contact details: ksidiropoulos.law@gmail.com

Dr. Konstantinos Sidiropoulos is a Greek qualified lawyer at the Athens Bar Association, currently practicing EU law and competition law with an international law firm in Brussels. He also holds a teaching assistant position at the Law School of the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens and a visiting lecturer position at the European Law and Governance School.

Before joining the law firm in Brussels, Dr. Sidiropoulos taught EU law and competition law at the University of Oxford. He has also delivered numerous guest lectures at, inter alia, the University of Stockholm, the University of Macedonia, and the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. He has worked for a short period of time at the European Commission's Legal Service.

He holds a 4-year degree in Law from the University of Athens (2013, Distinction) and two master's degrees from the University of Oxford (MJur in 2014 and MPhil in Law in 2015). He was awarded his PhD with no corrections from the University of Oxford in June 2020. During his doctorate, he was working under the supervision of Professor Stephen Weatherill (Jacques Delors Professor of European Law), and he was a scholar of both the Onassis Foundation and the Foundation for Education and European Culture.

He has organised various academic events on the most topical EU law topics and has acted for several years as convenor of Oxford's EU Law Discussion Group and as editor of the Oxford Business Law Blog.

Dr. Sidiropoulos is the author of a forthcoming monograph entitled The Influence of EU's Constitutional and Institutional Peculiarities on the Interpretation of Abuse of Dominance under Article 102 TFEU. He has also published several papers in journals and edited volumes in the field of EU competition law.
