

Dr.phil. Dora Papadopoulou holds a PhD in Political and Social Theory obtained from Eberhard Karls Universitaet Tuebingen, Germany. She holds a MA in “Political Philosophy/Theory” from the Department of Philosophy and Social Studies in the School of Philosophy, University of Crete and School of Law, NKUA. She holds also a degree in “International Political Theory” from the Department of Political Science at LSE. During her PhD under the supervision of Prof. Otfried Höffe in Tübingen/Germany, she was invited as a Researcher at LSE (Prof. Anthony Giddens) and after that she worked as a member of the Research Academic Staff at the New School for Social Research, (NSSR) New York under the supervision of Prof. Nancy Fraser. Dr.phil. Dora Papadopoulou has been a Post-doctoral Research Fellow at New School for Social Research, New York. She holds a BA in Philosophy and Social Studies, University of Crete and a second BA in Political Science, University of Crete. She was awarded with scholarships during her studies both from Alexander S. Public Benefit Foundation and State Scholarships Foundation of Greece (IKY).

Dr. phil. Dora Papadopoulou is a Resident Lecturer at ELGS (EPLO) and she works also as an Adjunct Lecturer at the Hellenic Open University. She was a Visiting Assistant Professor at Democritus University of Thrace, Visiting Lecturer at NKUA, Visiting Lecturer at the Aegean University, Visiting Assistant Professor at the University of Thessaly, Adjunct Lecturer at the University of Crete etc. She has been also a Visiting Research Fellow at the Forschungsinstitut für Philosophie (Political Theory, Political Sociology, Social Theory) in Hannover, one of the most important research centers in Germany. She has taught both to undergraduate students, Master’s degree students and PhD students, in German, English and Greek: political science, political theory, international political theory, political sociology, theories of public sphere, the state and political theory, contemporary political theory, Aristotle ethics and political theory in the philosophical thought of the time between the world wars, political ideologies, pluralist and liberal theory of state, concepts in political argument, political theory: 19th and 20th century, biopolitics, theories of gender. She is also supervisor of BA theses and MA Dissertations.

Dr. phil. Dora Papadopoulou has been invited to speak at many universities in the United States and Germany, and has been commissioned to do research for international and government bodies, as well as for independent think tanks, in a number of countries. She is a member of several national and international research projects. She is Member of various Associations and she has participated in many international conferences. She has published over fifty five articles/chapters in political and social theory, political sociology, and political science.

She fluently speaks and writes in Greek, German, English and Spanish.