

Erriketi Tla da Silva is a Research and Development Specialist at the Luxembourg Centre for European Law at the University of Luxembourg and a PhD candidate at Wageningen University & Research in the Netherlands, where her research focuses on the development of a principle of non-regression in EU environmental law.

Before joining the University of Luxembourg, she served as an Academic Assistant in the Department of European Legal Studies at the College of Europe in Bruges.

Erriketi holds an LL.M. in EU Law from the College of Europe and an LL.M. in Environmental Law from the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens. She is a qualified lawyer registered in the Athens Bar Association.

Her academic interests include environmental law as well as procedural and constitutional aspects of EU law.

Her work has appeared in peer-reviewed journals, including the Review of European Administrative Law and the European Energy and Environmental Law Review, and she regularly contributes case notes to EU Law Live.

Indicative publications

Erriketi Tla da Silva, ‘The Impact of the Russian War of Aggression against Ukraine on EU Environmental Law: Environmental Deregulation in Times of Energy Crisis?’ in The Impact of War (in Ukraine) on the EU (Bloomsbury 2025) 235–256.

Erriketi Tla da Silva, ‘Unravelling the nature of ‘Do No Significant Harm’: an emerging principle of EU environmental law or a transformative tool for the green economy?’ (2025) 18(2) Review of European Administrative Law.

Erriketi Tla da Silva, ‘In Search of the Golden Ratio: The Conundrum of Balancing Environmental Protection and Energy Security’ (2024) 33(6) European Energy and Environmental Law Review.

Emmanuel Renoud Delarque, Maria Ana Pocas Lourenço and Erriketi Tla da Silva, ‘Article 2 TEU Lines that Bind and Blur’ (2025) EU Law Live.

Carolina Ramalho, Erriketi Tla da Silva, ‘Breaking Down Climate Litigation Justice in Europe: The ECtHR’s Ruling on Duarte Agostinho and Others v Portugal and 32 Other Member States’ (2024) EU Law Live.